Street contractor seeks payment

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett said yesterday that Southland Construction Inc. of Gauthier will receive payment in full for Main Street repair work done last February when drainage problems at Hancock Bank are solved and the city receives final payment of federal funds for the project.

Tuesday The Sea Coast Echo received a copy of a letter addressed to the City of Bay St. Louis from Mike Vickery of Southland Construction Inc.

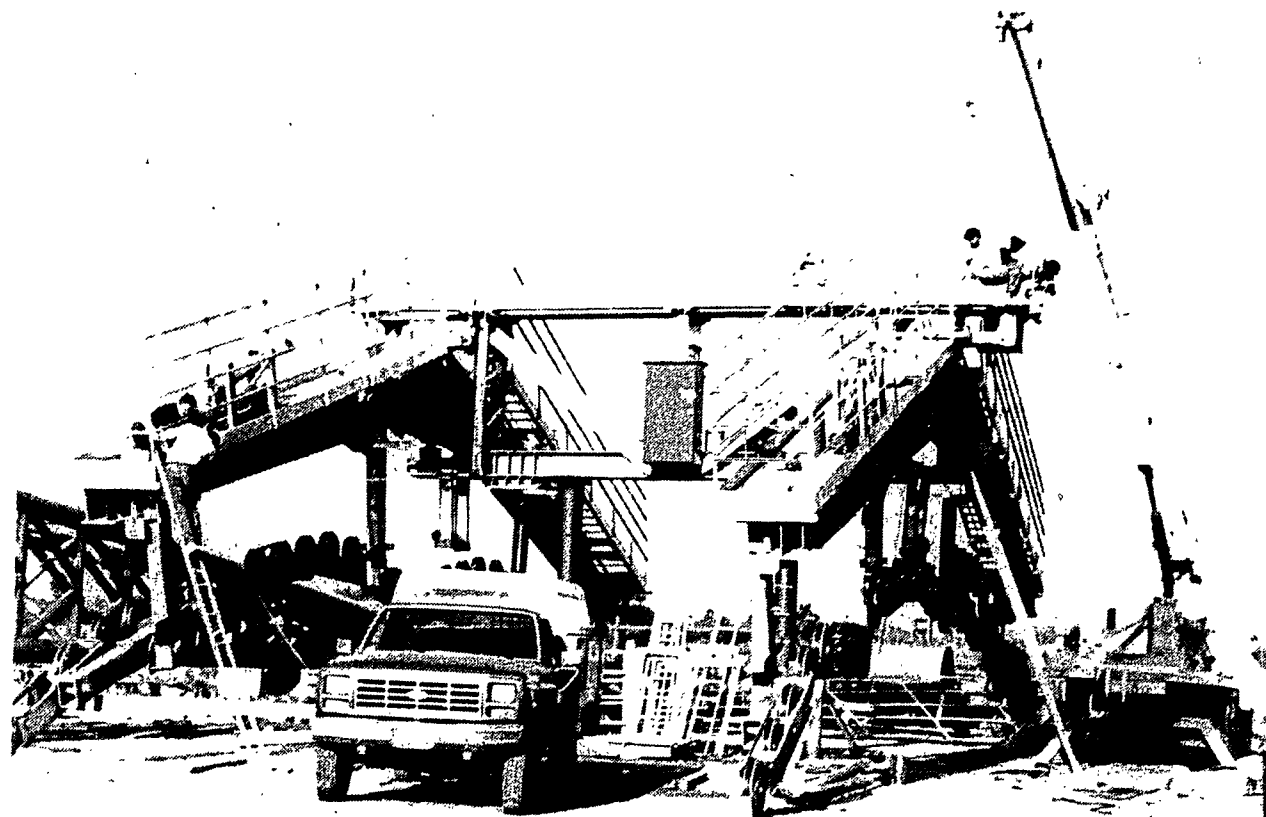

"Sometime back we appeared before you asking payment for work done on Main Street that was completed over a year ago!" the letter stated.

"What happened? We're still waiting. Don't you think it's time we were paid?"

Bennet said Southland has received $2,498 of the $3,498 owed it, leaving a balance due of $1,000.

In late 1983 the city council voted to withhold complete payment until several problems were resolved.

Two of them have been settled, Bennett said, and he expects a drainage problem at Hancock Bank parking lot to be resolved soon.

HEAD SECTION FOR AERIAL GONDOLA—The head section for the Aerial Gondola to cross the Mississippi River is being assembled at Steve Knight Steel Fabricators, Inc., Port Bienville Industrial Park, Hancock County. The section was prefabricated in Italy and is being assembled by four men

Eros Krewe celebrating 11th year

Krewe of Eros, Hancock County's oldest men's carnival organization, paraded Sunday.

Eros celebrates its 11th anniversary this year.

The association began with 10 charter members, five of whom are still active.

The krewe, part of the Nereid's parade, rolls under the direction of the captain of Nereids.

Eros started its ride with one float in 1974 and extended its krewe to 22 members and two floats the following year.

Eros' membership consists of business and professional men of Hancock County.

Eros' doubloons, being limited in number have become collector's items along the Coast.

Eros is known for its abundance of throws and specialty items.

Henry Cook named

Council appoints city prosecutor

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
Henry J. Cook III will take office March 1 as Bay St. Louis' city prosecuting attorney.

At Tuesday evening's city council meeting City Attorney Joseph Gex suggested establishing a position of city prosecutor, saying he had discussed the matter with City Judge Joseph Benvenuti.

"I don't think that as far as the present caseload goes, it is absolutely necessary," Gex said.

"We don't have that volume of serious offenses."

But, Gex noted, when serious offenses are brought up in city court, the judge is put in a position of being prosecutor and judge.

"He's acting as judge, jury and executioner right now."

And usually, Gex said, persons charged with serious offenses have an attorney to represent them in city court.

Mayor Larry Bennett concurred, saying, "We have officers who go out, make an arrest and go to court. Then the person arrested brings in an attorney—and the officer is at the mercy of the court."

Gex said he also thought a city prosecutor would be "immensely helpful" to police officials in giving them advice and "briefing" them on such things as types of charges and police procedures.

"I think he would be more available

Hancock industry assembles World's Fair aerial system

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The four towers supporting the aerial gondolas across the Mississippi River at the 1984 World Exposition in New Orleans are being assembled at Steve Knight Steel Fabricators, Inc., at Port Bienville.

Steve Knight, company owner reports some 400 tons of 12-inch steel pipe will be used in the 355-foot towers which were prefabricated at Utility Steel of Slidell.

Knight said, "The facilities at Hancock County's Industrial Park are ideal for the assembly of the very high towers. I want the people of Hancock County to know work is being done at Port Bienville for the New Orleans World's Fair."

The $12 million Mississippi Aerial River Transit system is a commercial venture of MART-Perez Ltd. The system is designed for 60 gondolas, and each can carry six passengers.

The head section is also being assembled at Knight's facilities.

"The head section was prefabricated in Italy, and we have four men from France in addition to five from my company working on that part of the gondola system," Knight added.

Knight has been in operation for five years at Port Bienville. His company has performed contracts for drilling rigs, Lykes Steamship Company, and other related industries.

The company owner stated, "I feel this industrial park is a great asset for Hancock County. I have really enjoyed the cooperation of James DeBlanc, executive director of the port and harbor, and Wilson Wehre before him, and the commissioners."

"This project for the World's Fair has brought some 40 jobs between my company and Utility Steel in Slidell," Knight allowed.

Knight indicated the highway, rail and water transportation at Hancock County's Port Bienville is one of the chief reasons for his company's being located at the local facility.

A recent addition to Knight's facilities is a dry dock capable of handling barges up to 50x130-feet and weighing up to 500 tons.

The floatation system of the dry dock was constructed out of 20 railroad tank cars.

The assembly of the gondola towers was started in October with the first week of March as the scheduled completion date, Knight said.

When erected, two pairs of towers will be 2,169 feet apart. The cables at 1.36 inches wide, will be 320 feet high at their apex.

When the fair closes, MART will remain as the first urban aerial commuter system in the country. West Bank commuters, who now use ferries or the bridge, can take the sky-ride across the river.

The trip is expected to take 4 1/2 minutes.

Catahoula animal behavior before tornado unexplained

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

"Daddy, Daddy—Joe's going crazy, young Eddie Moran Jr. said when he observed his horse behaving unusually just before a tornado whirled over their Catahoula Community home.

What the youngster saw was his horse and other livestock running wildly in their nearby field just before the tornado on the afternoon of Feb. 12 moved at apparent tree-top level through their field uprooting trees, damaging buildings and scattering debris in its path.

Meteorologists throughout the United States offer various speculations, but can offer no definitive opinions as to what might have caused the unusual animal behavior.

The experts are familiar with behavior studies and theories regarding unusual animal activity just before earthquakes.

Most of them say no studies have been conducted specifically regarding animals and tornadoes, but their reactions to various atmospheric conditions have been analyzed.

Eddie Moran Sr. says Ricky and Cynthia Dubulson were visiting when the tornado came through.

After Moran's son excitedly commented about the horse, the two men walked to the back door.

"Just before it hit, the horses and cows began running and jumping, and seemed to be trying to find cover," the elder Moran stated.

"Ricky and I went to the back door and when we got to the door my boy was heading outside. I saw the tin from my barn flying through the air so pulled Eddie back inside and Ricky yelled 'tornado hit the ground!'" Moran reports.

Just after Moran pulled his son inside the house, a flying sheet of roof tin struck the house roof just about two feet above the door and dug into the shingled roof.

Everyone in the house tried to find some sort of cover, he says.

Moran's wife Diane describes the tornado's sound as a roaring wind.

She says after that experience, whenever a strong storm occurs it scares her.

The tornado damaged the Moran house roof, broke a bedroom window and the resulting broken glass destroyed their waterbed, ripped the roof off their barn loft, and injured a horse when flying roof tin struck the animal in the face.

Lottie Moran's house trailer next door was knocked off the foundation which caused several windows, concrete blocks and steps to break, and stretched its storm straps, Eddie Moran notes.

The twister also knocked down a storage shed owned by neighbor Ellen Peterson and heavily damaged a barn owned by Jerry Moran, Eddie Moran says.

ETV Brief

SPINAL INJURY

A new "Nova" documentary at 8 p.m., Tuesday, Feb. 28, on Mississippi ETV, explores the controversies surrounding treatment for injuries to the spinal column and central nervous system.

"Will I Walk Again?" considers the case of Nan Davis, who was paralyzed in an automobile crash the night she graduated from high school. Last June, however, she graduated from college and took her degree on her feet by walking to the podium with electrodes strapped to both legs—a symbol of hope to thousands of Americans immobilized by spinal injuries.

Nan Davis is still paralyzed, but with the aid of electrodes stimulating her muscles by impulses patterned through a computer, she can pedal a bicycle and has learned to walk. She and a few others have retrieved the beginnings of a normal life, thanks to Dr. Jerrold Petrofsky, a biomedical engineer at Wright State University in Dayton, Ohio, who developed the technology.

Based on the similarities between the human nervous system and the wiring of computers, the equipment is still too expensive and unwieldy to be commercially viable.

Officials identify apparent suicide

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
The body of a man found Sunday in Hancock County by two hunters has been identified as James H. Ton of Fort Walton Beach, Fla., Hancock County Sheriff Ronnie Peterson said yesterday.

Peterson said the two hunters found the body about 10:30 Sunday morning on an isolated road, in the passenger side of a 1975 black Chevrolet Capri, with a 12-gauge shotgun between his legs.

The man had been shot in the left side of the face, Peterson said.

Sheriff's Department officials have been working all week to identify the dead man.

There was no license tag on the car and no identification in the car or on the body.

"We have contacted two brothers—one in Gulfport and one in New Orleans—and we definitely feel at this time that the deceased committed suicide," Peterson said.

An autopsy was conducted in New Orleans, he added.

Martin gets $22.6 million contract to plan tank production increase

Martin Marietta Aerospace has received a two-year $22.6 million contract from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to prepare plans for increasing Space Shuttle external tank production to 24 per year by 1988.

The work will be performed in NASA's Michoud Assembly Facility in New Orleans East, where Martin Marietta currently produces the giant expendable tanks at a rate of 10 per year.

The contract was awarded by NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Ala. and calls for:

- Development and evaluation of business systems to support a manufacturing rate of 24 external tanks per year, including schedules, cost analysis, computer resources, and projected hardware and software requirements;
- Development of manufacturing plans, production standards, safety manuals, factory transportation, and parts flow from subcontractors and suppliers; and — Analyses of tooling capacity and additional tooling requirements.

Martin Marietta has delivered 17 of the 154-foot-long, 28-foot-diameter external tanks that supply fuel to the Space Shuttle's main engines and serve as the structural backbone for the Shuttle orbiter and solid rocket motors during launch.

Ten have been blown on Shuttle missions, four await future flights from Kennedy Space Center, and three were used for ground testing.

An earlier contract provided $133 million for tooling to accommodate the increased production rate.

THE IMPACT A NEW HOSPITAL WILL HAVE ON HANCOCK COUNTY...

The construction of a new hospital for Hancock County has been much in the news lately. In order to clarify many points and questions being asked by the public, the Hancock

General Hospital Board of Trustees would like to take this means to answer some of these questions.

Did You Know

1. Hancock General Hospital currently has a $5.4 million operating budget in Hancock County, and projects operating budgets of $6.5 million and $7.6 million in 1985 and 1986, respectively.

2. Hancock General currently employs 195 people, making it one of the largest employers in the county. A new facility will mean more jobs for people in Hancock County, thereby also producing more revenue for the area.

3. Hancock General pays $2.6 million in employee salaries and benefits, and projects an increase to $2.8 million and $3 million in 1985 and 1986, respectively.

4. Approximately 70% of Hancock General's employees live within Hancock County, and spend the majority of their salaries within the county. A new facility, which would create more jobs and increase salaries, would mean more revenue for the county in sales taxes, etc.

5. Hancock General has committed itself to providing its patients with the highest level of care, but also to educating the public in the prevention of illness. A new facility would afford a greater opportunity for us to expand our educational programs for the public.

6. A new facility would definitely improve the aesthetic value of Hancock County, with a modern-looking building and modern interior. It would also provide the patients with more comfortable, modern surroundings, thereby assisting them in recovering more readily.

CONCLUSION:

Again, our conclusion that a new facility is necessary is based on the following major reasons:

- A. The cost of upgrading the present facility
- B. The difficulty of adding to the existing structure
- C. The age of the original building and systems

D. The potential benefits of relocating the hospital on a site which would be more accessible to the members of the community which it serves.

E. The lack of disruption of health care services during construction and renovation

F. The impact—economically, educationally and aesthetically—on Hancock County

Waveland resident opposes train stop

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
Work began this week on the 'depot' in Waveland for the Amtrak World's Fair commuter train, but a Waveland resident plans to oppose the project.

Glenda Dean of Waveland Park Subdivision said yesterday afternoon she planned to attend last night's meeting of the Waveland Aldermen to state her objections to the proposed site for the train stop.

"I don't object to a commuter train," she said, "but the choice is absurd." "This is a residential neighborhood," she said, "made up mostly of couples, retired persons and a large number of children."

With a playground across the street used for minor league games by children from all over Waveland, many of whom walk or ride bicycles to the playground, Dean said she feels the depot would be dangerous for the children's well-being.

With a convenience store the only business in the area, Dean said tourists would have nothing to do but "wander around the neighborhood."

"A lot of residents here are summer people or weekend people," she said. "They don't always know the issues that are going on locally."

Because many houses are vacant much of the time, Dean fears increased vandalism and possibly break-ins if the train stop is located in Waveland Park.

"There will be a lot more people using the facility than they're providing for if the train is a success," she said, adding she felt parking space was inadequate.

Dean said her family moved to Waveland six years ago from New Orleans because Waveland is a "quiet community."

The Deans have lived in Waveland Park for three years.

"I have yet to hear a single good reason as to why the train stop was located here," she said.

"A train station is rarely the shining highlight of a community."

Dean said things "came to a head" Tuesday when she saw workmen staking out the area.

She said she had spoken to as many neighbors as she could, and "Most of them feel as I do."

"Those who are not against it are not aware it's going on."

Dean said she hoped to get ten or 12 neighbors to attend the Waveland Aldermen's meeting.

"I hope to bargain for time," she said, so that she can spearhead a petition against the train stop location.

Noting that the train will serve passengers from all over Hancock County and parts of Harrison County, Dean said the train site "should serve the community—not tourists."

Tuesday the Bay St. Louis City Council voted to ask the Pass Christian Chamber of Commerce and Pass Christian city officials to join in a collective effort through U.S. Congressman Trent Lott to establish a Bay St. Louis stopping point for the World's Fair Amtrak train.

Mayor Larry Bennett was also instructed to contact Amtrak officials and the Tri-State Rapid Rail Transit Commission to clarify the status of the train stop.

Bennett said the city has never received written or verbal notification from Amtrak or Tri-State that Waveland has been designated as the stopping point in Hancock County.

But Waveland Mayor John Longo said Wednesday that he has a letter from Amtrak with a map marking Waveland as the site for the stop.

"Work started Monday on the depot facility," he said, "which should cost only about $5,000."

According to Longo, plans call for an old-fashioned railroad shed, using the old athletic house at Waveland Park, and a concrete parking area.

"We're going to build a walkway along the track for the benefit of women in high-heeled shoes," he said.

Longo said Mississippi Power Company will install more lights in the area.

"It's going to be well lit and safe," he emphasized.

Longo said he regretted the controversy about the stopping point for the train.

Responding to Dean's concerns, Longo noted that railroad tracks are never safe for children.

"But trains have been coming through there for close to 200 years," he said, adding that the ballpark has a high fence.

He also said that safety will be increased and precautions will be taken to safeguard against crime.

"Any vagrants we find will be arrested," he said.

"The only thing I ever said to Amtrak was that Waveland is more centrally located," he said, adding that he believes the majority of local train passengers will come from Buicaner State Park.

"And it would put the judge on a little higher level."

After establishing the new position, council members accepted Bennett's recommendation and authorized him to offer the post to Henry Cook for a salary of $300 per month.

Bennett said yesterday that Cook has accepted the position.

In another matter, Bennett advised the council that "when the current project is finished, we will have completed about 17 1/2 of the 48 to 50 miles of gas lines in the city."

"City crews were used for 6 1/4 miles of work," Bennett said, "at a cost of $96,000."

"In comparison, the contractor did a little more than 11 miles at a cost of $478,904."

Bennett estimated that work can be finished on the main line and hookups with seven working days of dry weather.

"And the asphalt people are standing by for the paving work," he added.

In other business Tuesday the Bay Council:

—Elected Councilman Harry Farve council vice-president, filling the vacancy left by Gene Taylor's resignation from the council;

—Approved ten more homes for rehabilitation under a U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development Community Development Block Grant;

—Heard a presentation by Michael Anthony, resident of Jourdan River Estates, supporting the Waveland Regional Wastewater District's proposed spray irrigation sewage treatment system and suggesting Hancock County, Bay St. Louis and Waveland officials cooperate in constructing a 24- or 27-inch transmission line from the cities to the spray site in lieu of the presently-proposed 20-inch pipe;

—Took under advisement a resolution from Hancock County School District asking that school taxes collected from land annexed by the City of Waveland be put in escrow until a determination is made as to their proper distribution; and —Accepted all annual bids submitted, instructing City Clerk Eddie Fayre to purchase from the lowest available bidder at time purchases are made.

Mardi Gras time is here. On the local scene, the Krewe of Nereids will roll Sunday afternoon down US-90. The parade is scheduled to begin at 2 p.m. from the Choctaw Plaza Shopping Center East on US-90 to Katies Kandy Shop, then West to Our Shopping Center. John Hill, New Orleans Saints center is the Grand Marshall for the 18th annual parade. The Krewe of Eros, this year celebrating its 11th year, will follow the Nereids floats. Eros is comprised of about 25 local business and professional men who parade on two floats and always provide an extra dimension to the day's festivities. We are hoping everyone will be lining the highway for the big parade. We do suggest you get your spot a little early as in previous years Nereids draws a large crowd. We hope to see you at the parade Sunday.

We received a call from Lee Klein late Wednesday reporting he has already gotten $4,000 in pledges and money in hand towards the $10,000 he and a group are trying to raise to purchase an additional sheriff's patrol vehicle. Klein indicated he would like to finish the drive by Friday a week. Persons interested can contact Klein at 467-5887.

SBA Focus on Small Business

U.S. Small Business Administration

By Dorothy A. Overal
Public Information
Office

Q: As a small business owner, how best can I determine pay levels for my workers?

A: Assuming you have evaluated jobs being done by your employees and have taken into consideration your overall financial situation, a survey of who's paying how much for what in your city or area is an excellent way of finding out how much you ought to pay for each of your jobs.

You probably have neither the time nor the money to spend on making such a survey yourself.

That shouldn't be a problem; you should be able to get all the data you need from sources such as your local Chamber of Commerce, major firms located in your area, or from such national sources as the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, the Administrative Management Society, or the American Management Association.

If you belong to a trade association, you may be able to get its help to find out what the going rate is for one or more jobs in each pay level.

In studying pay in your area and applying what you learn to your own jobs, make sure you compare job descriptions, not just job titles.

Job titles can be misleading; there can be great differences between what one organization and another call their jobs. One firm's janitor may be somebody else's environmental control engineer.

Q: Any ideas on how I can boost productivity in my small firm?

A: Studies show that the key to boosting productivity in any firm, large or small, is the quality of management. The boss must lead the way.

There are about five important steps in any productivity improvement program:

1. Make sure everyone in your firm knows your determination to make your operation more efficient.

2. If your firm is large enough, set up a special productivity committee to be responsible for measurement and analysis of your operations.

3. Set goals and objectives, target problems and rank those problems in order.

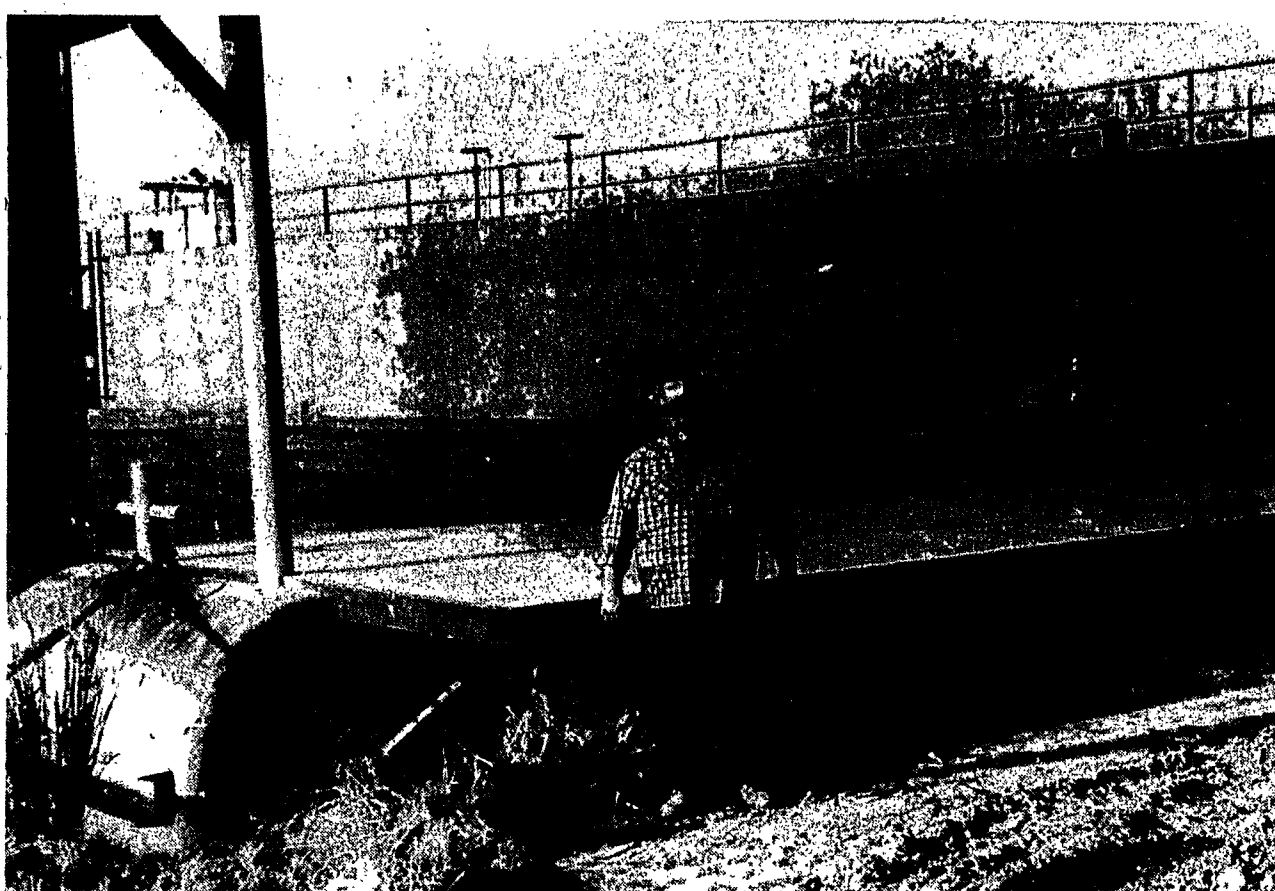

4. Tell your employees what's going on in your productivity studies and efforts. Get your workers involved in the project. Try to develop a "company culture" in which employees identify with and are an important part of your company. This sense of belonging can be developed through basic worker fairness and equitable incentives.

5. Measure and analyze. This is the technical key to success. Productivity must be defined, formulas and worksheets developed, sources of data identified, benchmark studies performed and personnel assigned. Measuring productivity can be a highly complex task. The goal, however, is to keep it as simple as possible without distorting and depreciating the data.

MEDICAL DEDUCTIONS

Fees for doctors, hospital services, transportation for medical treatment, and medicines and drugs are deductible if you itemize your deductions. For 1983 you may only deduct medical expenses that are more than 5% of your adjusted gross income so be sure to check details in free IRS Publication 502 "Medical and Dental Expenses," available by using the handy order blank in your tax package.

PROUD OF DRY DOCK—Steve Knight, president of Steve Knight Steel Fabricators, Inc. located at Hancock County's Port Bienville Industrial Park, stands in front of dry dock he constructed at his yard. Flotation for the dry dock is provided by the tanks of 20 railroad cars he collected throughout the United States. Knight's crewmen constructed the facility which is 50x130-feet and can handle up to 500 tons. It can be used for barge construction and repairs. Knight's company has been at the port facility for five years. He said he really appreciates the cooperation he has received from local officials. His company is currently assembling the four towers and head section for the gondolas for the aerial cable crossing of the Mississippi River for the World's Fair in New Orleans. ANOREXIA NERVOSA
Is anorexia nervosa dangerous? How prevalent is it and what are the symptoms?

Anorexia nervosa is a compulsive dieting syndrome that results in starvation and is fatal in five to 20 percent of all cases. It has been quite prevalent in the United States, though it is now declining as bulimia, or bingeing followed by vomiting or laxative abuse, increases. Rarely are males anorexic.

Typically, this problem occurs in wealthier countries and strikes bright, upper middle-class young women who are high achievers. So far, researchers have been unable to identify and specific medical or psychiatric cause. Fashion has been blamed for encouraging anorexia because of its emphasis on ultrathinness.

Since the 1950s, role models for women - such as Miss Americas, models, actresses - have become thinner and thinner. Women become anorexic in an attempt to meet these standards and develop a profound fear of obesity.

The syndrome frequently begins with a marginally overweight young woman who decides to diet long after she has reached her ideal body weight.

Anorexia nervosa can also be associated with a stressful situation, such as going away to college or being exposed to parents' divorce. Anorexics often come from overbearing families and use compulsive dieting as a means of gaining control of the family and manipulating them.

One symptom of the syndrome is that the dieter has a distorted body image - that is, she thinks of herself as fat when in fact she is emaciated. Other symptoms include a denial of her illness, absence of menstrual periods, a lack of interest in eating, an increase in physical activity and sometimes increased interest in nutrition.

Often an anorexic becomes preoccupied with food and continually insists that others eat, though she herself refuses to eat. She may avoid foods containing fat and concentrate on vegetables and protein.

Anorexics may seriously damage their bodies by inducing vomiting and using diuretics and laxatives. These practices can result in electrolyte imbalance and other serious metabolic problems. Singer Karen Carpenter's death was a result of complications of anorexia.

The first and most important step in treating an anorexic is getting her to acknowledge her problem. Those unwilling to do this are the hardest to treat. The anorexic is encouraged to form a trusting relationship with a therapist who specializes in eating disorders. A physician and sometimes a nutritionist also participate in her treatment.

Treatments may be given in a hospital if the problem is severe. For example, if a patient is seriously malnourished, aggressive nutritional support is needed, which may include intravenous feeding. Treatment varies with each patient, however.

Those suffering from this syndrome can be very manipulative, and most medical personnel who deal with anorexics agree that firm, strict guidelines are necessary for the patient to overcome the problems and begin eating normally again.

QUALITY OF EDUCATION

If Mississippi is to be successful in its search for excellence within its institutions of higher education, the state must change directions.

This is a conclusion of the Mississippi Economic Council following a study of trends in finance, enrollment, resource allocation, and course offerings of the state's system of higher education.

The Council report commends the Board of Trustees of Institutions of Higher Learning for its efforts to make more effective use of available resources, but concludes that the board must now begin developing plans for merger, consolidation, or special uses of some or all of the eight public universities to assure optimum use of the state's education resources.

According to the report, higher education is costing Mississippi taxpayers 59 percent more now than it was five years ago while on-campus enrollment, based on full-time equivalency counts, has remained virtually unchanged.

Additionally, although Mississippi's eight public universities are receiving more dollars than in the past, the percentage of expenditures on items representing the quality of the institutions' instruction - instruction, faculty, and research - is declining.

"Mississippi is at a philosophical crossroads," says the report. "Shall Mississippi continue to offer more in-higher education; or will Mississippi offer 'better' higher education?"

It would be well for the Legislature to give close attention to the report.

Senator Thad Cochran

SPECIAL REPORT:

Protected Criminals

Senator Thad Cochran has won Senate approval for tightening up the controversial federal witness protection program.

Senator Cochran's suggestions for reforms in the Witness Security Program have been incorporated in the Comprehensive Crime Control Act of 1984.

"I am gratified that we have succeeded in requiring better screening of those who qualify for the witness relocation program," the Senator commented.

He told colleagues on the Senate floor of three cases in Mississippi alone where federally-protected witnesses committed major felonies, in Jackson, Pascagoula and Natchez, including two murders.

One case is sensational Marion Albert Pruett case involving the death of Mrs. Peggy Lowe of Jackson.

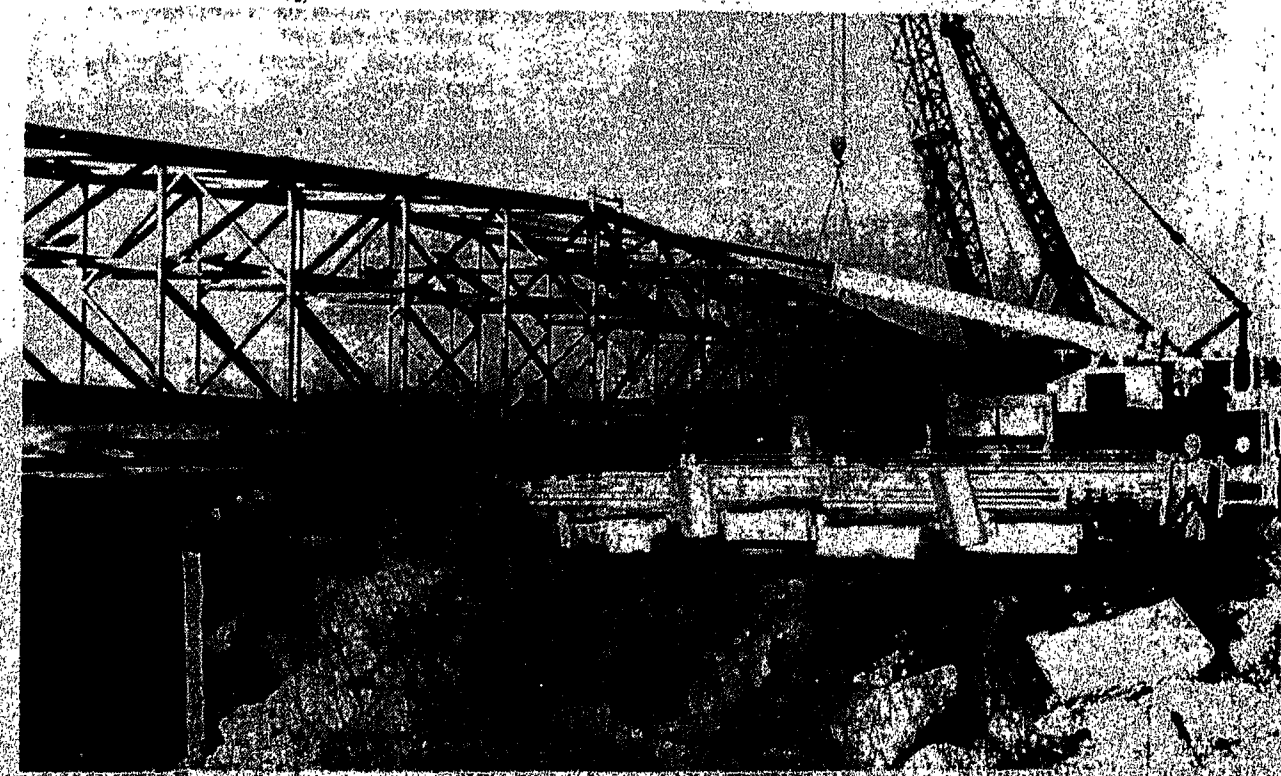

"Our legislation is aimed at giving law-abiding citizens in the nation better protection from dangerous criminals. There have been some serious flaws in the administration of the witness security program, originally enacted in 1970 to help combat organized crime."

These approved changes will mean better communication and cooperation between federal authorities overseeing the program and state and local law enforcement officers charged with community protection in their areas," he stated.

Senator Cochran noted the Crime Control Act awaiting final Senate passage contains many of the original provisions of the bill he drafted and introduced last year after he conducted hearings in Mississippi concerning the witness security program.

In addition to tighter procedures over those participating in the program and requiring closer cooperation between law enforcement agencies, as mandated by Senator Cochran's provisions, he said he would continue to seek redress for victims of crimes committed by protected witnesses, and protection of legal rights of citizens with civil claims against such participants.

Road repairs underway to allow bus access

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Hancock County District Three crews are working on a poorly-drained road which has prevented a public school bus from picking up children at their home. Tommy Shaw of the County School Board reported at a recess meeting Tuesday night that Anna Road in north Hancock frequently floods in one area and the Hancock North Central bus driver is afraid of bogging down there. The board and Terrell Randolph, superintendent of education, discussed the possibility of changing bus routes so another bus traveling from the opposite end of the road could avoid the bog and pick up the students. But Randolph cautioned that the option would increase the route which is already the longest in the system. Randolph told the board that Roger Dale, Ladner, District Three supervisor, said he could not repair the road and replace a wooden bridge on it due to a lack of funds. After further discussion of other options, Billie Fay Lyons suggested that Randolph contact Ladner about the road again. Randolph said Wednesday that Ladner agreed to repair the road and had already sent crews to fill in and grade it. The superintendent clarified that the bridge did not need to be replaced and was structurally sound, but Ladner wanted to replace the aging structure anyway when funds permit. Randolph added that the primary problem with the road is the flooding. Ladner was not available for comment Wednesday.

Supervisors settle with Schuffert

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
A lawsuit filed last week by Schuffert Pontiac-Buick-G.M.C. Inc. against the Hancock Board of Supervisors was settled out of court yesterday morning, Board Attorney Walter Gex III said Wednesday. Schuffert Pontiac filed suit in Chancery Court claiming that the supervisors were discriminating against all parties not in the business of selling Ford vehicles. The plaintiff asked for compensatory damages against each supervisor in the amount of $26,999. Schuffert Pontiac also asked for an injunction restraining Hancock County from accepting delivery of three trucks from Charlie Henderson Ford, and for a declaratory judgment that Schuffert's bid in October for half-ton pickup trucks be accepted as the lowest and best. Gex said under the terms of the settlement the supervisors will readvertise for one truck for which a bid was taken under advisement last Monday. The supervisors have also agreed that in the future, specified invitations to bid will either be general or, if specific, they will not exclude any domestic manufacturer from bidding. The October bid for three trucks awarded to Charlie Henderson Ford will stand, Gex said.

MAGIC FLUTE

James Galway and the New York Philharmonic conducted by Zubin Mehta open the eighth season of "Live from Lincoln Center" on public television at 8 p.m. Wednesday, February 29, on Mississippi Educational Television.

Born in Belfast, flutist

Galway has come to be regarded as both a supreme interpreter of the classical flute repertoire and a consummate entertainer whose appeal crosses all musical boundaries. Few musicians succeed in establishing a solo career with the flute, but within a year of his departure from concert orchestras, he had played 120 concerts.

Both on stage and in recordings, Galway's repertoire is enormous: he has recorded most of the masterpieces of the flute literature and has transcribed numerous works originally composed for other instruments.

LAST REBELS

Campanella has recorded the narration for Mississippi ETV's documentary, "The Last Confederates." The documentary tells the story of Southern Confederates who fled the United States for Brazil after the Civil War.

"The Last Confederates" will air on Mississippi ETV this year and will be offered to the public Broadcasting Service

(PBS) for national telecast. Edward Cohen of Mississippi ETV is executive producer and also wrote and directed the program.

Campanella is a veteran of more than 600 television shows and 20 feature films. Viewers may especially remember him from his role in "One Day at a Time" as Bonnie Franklin's ex-husband Ed.

Campanella's distinctive voice has landed him narrating roles for "China: The Roots of Madness," "The Making of the President—1968," "Bogart," the Jacques Cousteau series and three years of National Geographic specials.

Campanella has recently been selected as the host for "The All-New This Is Your Life." Longtime "This Is Your Life" host Ralph Edwards, who is serving as executive producer of the new series, personally selected Campanella.

'Cheaters' opens six-week run Friday at Minacapelli's

Minacapelli's Dinner Theatre in Slidell will present Michael Jacob's farce, 'Cheaters' beginning Friday for a six-week run.

'Cheaters' is the tale of a boy and a girl living together unbeknownst to their respective parents.

She wants to get married, he doesn't.

Meanwhile unbeknownst to the kids, his mother is cheating with her father, and her mother is cheating with his father.

All are reasonably content in their respective arrangements, until—in an attempt to force a marriage proposal—daughter invites son and parents to daughter's parents home for a quiet little dinner.

Then the fun really begins in earnest.

Fear not, after some incredibly funny complications, all ends well.

Playing Michelle and Allen, the young lovers whose quarrel sets the complications in motion, are Christie Moore and Mike Firek, both making their debut on the Minacapelli stage.

Phil White and Margaret Rennie appear as Allen's philandering parents Sam and Monica.

A Minacapelli's veteran, White performed in 'Luv,' Minacapelli's initial production and 'Mary, Mary,' among others and directed 'How to Succeed...'

White is also in great demand for his one-man show 'An Evening with Mark Twain.'

Rennie, on the other hand, is a Minacapelli newcomer, but has been seen in New Orleans in 'Oliver,' 'Love Rides the Rails,' 'Blithe Spirit' and 'Ten Little Indians.'

As the other pair of 'Cheaters' are Julia Hines as Grace and James Hines as Howard.

Julia Hines will also be making her initial appearance at Minacapelli's while her real-life husband (as well as stage husband) Jim is now performing in the smash hit 'Hello Dolly.'

Directing 'Cheaters' is Bob Gault, who has previously been seen at Minacapelli's in

'How to Succeed...,' 'Plaza Suite' and the current production 'Hello Dolly,' in which he plays Horace Vandergelder.

This is his first directorial effort at Minacapelli's.

The set is designed and executed by David Potter, and Bret Gault and Kris Keller are stage managers.

'Cheaters' will be presented on Fridays and Saturdays at 8:15 p.m., preceded by a 6:30 p.m. buffet, and on Sundays at 2:15 p.m. preceded by a 1 p.m. buffet.

For reservations call 504-888-7000 in New Orleans and 504-643-9671 in Slidell.

Red Cross to administer energy assistance donation

The American Red Cross has received a $25,000 donation from Mississippi Power Company to provide energy assistance for the utility's elderly customers who are incapable of caring for themselves and are on fixed incomes.

Jere Nichols, territorial manager for the American Red Cross in Jackson, said the assistance will be available through the organization's offices in southeast Mississippi to qualifying Mississippi Power Company customers.

"The contribution from Mississippi Power Company will make it possible to help those people 65 years of age or older who are mentally or physically handicapped and on fixed incomes with no alternative source of funds," Nichols said. "This criteria could change later if the community's needs change."

Alan Barton, president of the Gulfport-based utility, said the primary reason for the donation was due to the hardships these people are facing as a result of the extremely cold winter being experienced in southeast Mississippi.

"The increased use of electricity brought on by the cold weather has made it difficult for many of these customers to pay their electric bills," Barton said. "We hope that making this money available will ease the financial burden and help these customers."

The American Red Cross will be responsible for taking applications, determining who qualified and how much assistance will be granted. Qualifying customers may receive one donation per calendar year with a maximum assistance of $100.

"We believe there is a real need for this type of assistance and Mississippi Power's contribution should be a big help for these customers," Nichols said.

Mississippi Power Company customers who believe they are eligible for this program should contact their local American Red Cross chapter or representative.

Easter Seal Society prepares annual drive

During February, Easter Seal chairmen for Hancock County will be calling in Bay St. Louis and Waveland, asking for volunteers to serve as block chairmen for the Neighbors-to-Neighbor campaign for the Easter Seal Society.

The drive, which will officially begin on March 1 and continue through Easter Sunday, is the main fund raising effort made by the society which receives its funds directly from private donations.

Through the monies received from this special event, the Hancock County Chapter will be able to continue giving direct service to the "handicapped" children and adults in this area, regardless of their disability.

"Please take your valuable time to volunteer for your block when you are called by the Neighbor-to-Neighbor chairman," asked Mrs. Gail Price, regional representative for the Gulf Coast society.

"We are very proud of the commitment that has been made in the past by our volunteers in Hancock County and appreciate their dedication to this year's fund raising effort."

The Neighbor-to-Neighbor kits will be mailed out the first of March to the volunteers and donations may be collected until Easter.

The donations will be returned in the kit to the banks that will be listed on your information sheet inside the kit.

All information as to how to circulate the kit will also be in the kit.

For further information about the Drive and how money is used for the disabled in this community, call the Easter Seal Office in Biloxi at 433-4505.

"Our success depends on you, please help us so that we can help those who can not help themselves," said Price.

Regarding the unusual animal behavior, Jim Belville, severe weather specialist of the National Weather Service in New Orleans, says some theories have been offered regarding animal activity and tornadoes which suggest they react to barometric pressure changes affecting the inner ear or a sound not audible to humans.

He notes a tornado not in direct contact with the ground, like the Catahoula one, has a high pitched whine the animals might have heard.

"Animals have built in sensory mechanisms. Their reactions have been recorded with all kinds of storms," Belville states.

He cites as an example that sheep and cattle tend to huddle together as a thunderstorm approaches.

Belville adds that tornado studies in general are difficult to perform because of the unpredictability and short duration of a twister.

But Dr. Edwin Kessler, director of the National Severe Storms Laboratory in Norman, Okla., and author of "The Thunderstorm and Human Affairs," is skeptical of animal behavior theories and "folklore" in regard to tornadoes.

"Yes, there are studies or papers on unusual behavior, but these are not definitive. If the animals acted strangely, it's just because they heard the tornado," he states.

Kessler says the pressure change would not apply in this case because it would vary only when the twister was upon the animals.

Dr. Helmut Landsberg, professor of meteorology at University of Maryland in College Park who has studied meteorology, says he has heard of some reports of unusual animal behavior prior to tornadoes, but these are few because animals cannot communicate with humans and those in the path of a twister don't usually survive. "I don't think it was the tornado, but the accompanying storm activity," he states regarding the Catahoula event.

Landsberg says studies have shown that electromagnetic waves from thunderstorm activity will disturb not only animals, but humans as well.

Dr. Dennis Driscoll, professor of meteorology at Texas A and M University at College Station who also has an interest in biometeorology, has heard of animals acting strangely before a tornado strikes, but admits he's skeptical of these claims.

He also feels that animals will react to current activity such as an approaching tornado just as any human would.

Some of the meteorologist seemed insulted or resentful when asked about the Catahoula animal behavior.

When Driscoll was asked why he and other professionals seem to react in this manner, he replies that scientists always look for facts and when some event suggests some sort of superstition it's irritating to these experts.

He cites as a particular irritant a recent weather predicting contest on a Houston television station between a cow and a weatherman.

MELISSA DORSEY, (35), takes aim at the basket as Perry Central defender Anita Robinson, (31), tries to block her view. The Tigerettes took an early 22-14 first quarter advantage only to see Perry Central knot the contest at halftime, 32-32. The second half of the District 8-A Tournament Friday night at the Tiger Dome was a see-saw battle with the lead changing hands several times. In the end Perry Central prevailed, edging the favored Tigerettes 52-50. The loss eliminated the 21-4 Lady Tigers from competition in the state playoffs. High scorers in the game for Bay High were Michelle Dorsey with 22 points followed by Terri Rhodes and Jonique Farve with 12 and 10 points respectively. (Echo photo by Randy Ponder)

DISTRICT 8-A CHAMPS—Wes Dedeaux, (4), makes a clutch basket just before halftime as Bay High battled Perry Central in the Tiger Dome Saturday night. Dedeaux was fouled on the play and hit the free throw to complete a three point play, halting a Perry Central rally. The Tigers won the game 73-63. Top scorers in the contest for Bay High were Kenneth Cline with 31 points and Milas Harvey with 20. (Echo photo by Randy Ponder)

TOWER OF POWER—Kenneth Cline (34) goes to the hoop for two of his game-high 31 points Saturday night in the Tiger Dome as Bay High claimed their first District 8-A Championship, defeating Perry Central 73-63. The Tigers, under the direction of first year head coach Barney Noraine, have won 21 games while dropping only 4. The win propelled Bay High into the state basketball playoffs which began last night with the Tigers hosting District 5-A runner-up Newton. Results of the contest were not available at press time. ## Bay-Waveland Flotilla reports national boating safety effort Flotilla 35 U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary in Bay St. Louis reports establishment of a toll-free number as a central reference point for all information on boating safety courses.

The major national outreach program designed to make the waters safer by bringing boating courses, experts and literature directly to boaters is sponsored by the BOAT/U.S. Foundation for Boating Safety, and the National Marine Manufacturers Association.

According to Foundation Director Jim Ellis, the four-part campaign reaches out to tens of thousands of boaters, who have had little or no formal boat handling education and are looking to upgrade their boat handling skills.

The first part of the program involves establishment of the one central reference point for all information on boating safety courses in the country, such as those offered by volunteer organizations like the United States Power Squadrons and the Coast Guard Auxiliary.

Toward this goal, the foundation has established a toll-free number (800) 336-BOAT.

Established and operated from the foundation's headquarters, the "800" number allows boaters in nearly all parts of the country to get instant access to up-to-date information on courses being offered in their area.

The toll-free line went into operation on Jan. 2.

To publicize the "800" number and the numerous free boating courses available, the foundation is also producing several public service announcements for television which will highlight the efforts of the major volunteer boating safety organizations.

The TV spots will focus on encouraging boaters to take the free courses offered by the Power Squadrons and the Auxiliary.

The third element of the campaign involves the creation of a new series of boating handling workshop.

Designed by the BOAT/U.S. Foundation to be short and entertaining, the workshops will cover such subjects as Rules of the Road, required and recommended safety equipment and safe boating practices.

Produced in cooperation with the National Marine Manufacturers Association (NMMA), they were initially offered during the winter NMMA boat shows in Chicago and New York in January and Philadelphia and Miami in February.

In addition to the "800" number and the workshops, the foundation and NMMA are creating new practical boating safety aids which will be distributed with new boats and engines. Included will be a key fob with built-in pre-start checklist, a navigation and Rules of the Road decal and a litter bag carrying an alcohol abuse warning.

The BOAT/U.S. Foundation for Boating Safety is a non-profit, tax-exempt organization which is entirely funded through contributions made by individual boat owners.

Thousands of BOAT/U.S. members have made these programs possible through voluntary contributions included with their dues renewal notice.

Sports Brief

SILVER AWARD

The U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary's Silver Award has been presented to Flotilla 35 of Pass Christian.

The award was presented recently at an annual Division Award Banquet at Keesler Officers Club.

Flotilla 35 contributed more than 1,000 volunteer man hours to win this award, including 728 hours on safety patrols and 315 hours inspecting boats for proper equipment and seaworthiness.

UNDERWATER HERO

The heroism of the tiny minnow is especially noteworthy. While in the jaws of an enemy, minnows release a scent to alert other minnows to flee for their lives, says National Wildlife's Ranger Rick magazine.

Also at Milner Stadium is Coca Cola's Great Day of Soccer open free to all soccer players on the Coast up to age 19.

There are five individual events—Throw-in for Accuracy and Distance; Long Distance Kicking; Juggling; Dribbling; and Goal Scoring. Each participant received an award, and winners in each sex/age group receive additional awards.

Also if enough members of a team compete, winning teams can receive additional awards.

BAYS is supporting this event by supplying people to assist, and BAYS urges every soccer player to take the opportunity to demonstrate his/her skills.

Last Thursday BAYS held a Rule Clinic led by Tom Demboski. There were 15 participants including both coaches and referees.

The Laws of the Game were reviewed in application to actual game situations. BAYS now has six referees and two associates.

Ducks Unlimited, NSTL agency cooperate on wetlands research

NSTL's Earth Resources Laboratory and Ducks Unlimited Inc. are presently involved in a joint research endeavor investigating the potential of applying Landsat

4 Thematic Mapper data to accurately assess waterfowl habitat in North America's wetlands.

Ducks Unlimited is the world's largest private, non-profit wildlife conservation organization dedicated to the preservation, maintenance and improvement of wild waterfowl habitat.

The idea behind the partnership between NASA and Ducks Unlimited is to use Landsat 4 to inventory North America's invaluable wetlands, not only as an approach to waterfowl conservation, but also as a means of slowing the continued loss of U.S. wetlands that is now estimated at 450,000 acres annually.

According to Chuck Hill, NSTL project scientist, Landsat 3 Multispectral Scanner data was used in the recent past by Ducks Unlimited Canada to assess waterfowl habitat.

He noted that several studies using these classifications were successful in separating wetlands from non-wetlands for areas in excess of 10 acres.

Some studies have offered that as many as 60 percent of the wetlands identified by photographic interpretation were overlooked by Landsat 3 classifications.

Landsat 4 Thematic Mapper data offers considerable improvements in spectral and spatial resolution over the previous Multispectral Scanner data of Landsat 3.

Covering every square foot of the globe every 16 days Landsat 4 is able to monitor areas as small as 1/4 acre from a distance of 440 miles above the earth.

Landsat 4 can also provide information to help identify plant life with far more sophistication than data from Landsat 3.

By using Landsat 4's multispectral data to determine land cover, Ducks Unlimited can place priorities on developing wetlands that would be rich in the types of plants necessary to raise healthy ducks and geese.

According to Hill, NASA's involvement with Ducks Unlimited in using Landsat 4 has resulted in marked improvements in wetland inventories enabling them to take a broader, more continental look at wetlands conservation.

In addition to providing the first comprehensive inventory of North America, it will save Ducks Unlimited Canada some $2 million worth of traditional survey costs over the next 10 years, according to Ducks Unlimited officials.

As of yet, there have been no wetland projects undertaken in the U.S. However, Ducks Unlimited has recently announced its plans for developing a U.S. habitat program like that currently in Canada.

Projects will begin in 1984 in several of the northern tier states where 90 percent of U.S. waterfowl production takes place.

Wild horses and burros available for adoption in Tennessee

Over 550 wild horses and burros from western rangelands found homes in the Southeast during 1983, according to Randall and Paula Carr, operators of the Southeastern Distribution Center located near Cross Plains, Tenn.

The Carrs run the center under contract to the Interior Department's Bureau of Land Management (BLM) and have completed their fourth full year of operation.

Residents of 15 southeastern states adopted 397 wild horses and 154 wild burros from the center under the bureau's Adopt-A-Horse and Burro Program.

Most of the adopters are from Tennessee, Kentucky, Alabama and Georgia, accounting for more than half of all adoptions in the southeast.

There are now 10,686 adopted animals in the East, since the program's inception less than a decade ago.

G. Curtis Jones, Jr., Eastern States Director for BLM, noted the Adoption Center was located in north-central Tennessee to provide a relatively close location for easterners to adopt wild horses and burros instead of making the long journey out west.

He added that many people from nearby states have taken this opportunity to obtain a fine horse or burro at a low cost, but there are many more who are unaware of the program and the availability of animals so close to home.

"Right now," according to Randall Carr, "we have over 40 mares and studs available for adoption in our corrals. Most are from Nevada and are three years old or younger."

"We're hopeful folks will take advantage of the good selection," since adoptions slack off this time of year, we can spend more time helping adopters make a choice and also give some hints on how to care for them," Carr pointed out.

Over 60,000 wild horses and burros under federal protection now roam the public range in ten western states.

To avoid starvation due to overpopulation, BLM rounds up excess wild horses and burros and offers them for adoption to people who promise to give them good homes.

A fee of $210 per horse and $130 per burro is collected to help pay the cost of roundup, veterinary care, transportation, and administrative expenses.

Adopters must provide humane care for animals for at least 12 months before they may apply and receive ownership from BLM.

During this time, the horses and burros can be trained and used for all the same purposes as domestic animals.

Adopted horses have won endurance races, plowing contests, and have made particularly good 4-H projects.

Adopted burros make interesting pets, have been taught to break show calves, and have often been used as sure-footed pack animals.

For more information about the Adopt-A-Horse and Burro Program contact the Southeastern Distribution Center, Randall and Paula Carr, Route 2, Carr-Couts Road, Cross Plains, Tennessee 37049, Telephone (615) 654-2180.

Golden Eagles competing in first Metro Conference swim championships

South Mississippi Soccer Club announces "A Great Day of Soccer" to be held Saturday, Feb. 25, at Milner Stadium in Gulfport.

Pete Morganthaler, committee chairman for the event, said, "Soccer! It's a great sport, and it's catching on big in South Mississippi. The event, our second 'Great Day of Soccer' guarantees to be bigger and better this year."

"Open to boys and girls under 19 who like soccer, it's a great chance to learn all about soccer from the experts and have lots of fun," the chairman added.

Five soccer skills will be tested throughout the day, including long distance kicking, juggling, a throw-in for distance, goal kick/speed passing, and dribbling.

"Prizes will be given to all participants so we ask that everyone come on out, participate in the events, and be a winner. Don't miss it," he continued.

Morganthaler added, "A Great Day of Soccer is an image building program for soccer on the Gulf Coast. It is designed to stimulate interest in soccer and to recognize individual and team achievements in soccer skills and techniques."

"A Great Day of Soccer is not restricted to local groups or leagues in soccer programs. It is open to all individuals under the age of 19," he emphasized.

USM's Big Gold tennis invitational to involve more than 200 players

More than 200 players representing 28 schools and at least a dozen nations are scheduled to compete in the University of Southern Mississippi's 16th annual Big Gold Invitational Tennis Tournament slated at USM Mar. 1-3.

The tournament kicks off the Golden Eagles' 1984 season which will include 31 regular season matches. Four tournaments are included on the slate.

USM Tennis Coach and tournament director E.L. Harrington, said the Big Gold event, one of the largest among college tennis competition in the country, will draw some of the nation's top amateur players.

"It should be an exciting and outstanding event," he said.

Belhaven College of Jackson, last year's NAIA champion, "should be the tournament favorite," Harrington said. "They have all their people from last year returning, and they are strong."

Metro Conference teams other than USM appearing in the tournament will be Tulane, Louisville and Memphis State.

The tournament, Harrington said, "will feature six single brackets and three double brackets. 'There will be a winner's and a loser's bracket,'" he said. "Everyone will have an opportunity to play at least two singles and two doubles matches."

The overall tournament team winner will receive a $1,000 scholarship for the team's school. The scholarship is being provided by prominent Hattiesburg businessman W.P. Harrington and others.

Others awards and trophies will be provided, in part, by

DEAD DOLPHIN—Files gather on a dolphin carcass which recently washed up on the beach between Bay Oaks and Blenville Drives in Bay St. Louis. Enforcement Officer Clifton Roberts of the State Bureau of Marine Resources in Pass Christian says the BMR inspected the dead dolphin and filed a report with National Marine Fisheries, as they do whenever an ailing or dead sea mammal is found, but the carcass was too decayed to determine the cause of death. ## STAR teacher, student selected at Bay High Robert V. Magee, principal, Bay Senior High School, Bay St. Louis, reports Stephanie Carol Power is the 1984 STAR student and Kenneth Harder is STAR teacher.

The Student-Teacher Achievement Recognition program is sponsored by the Mississippi Economic Council in Jackson to encourage greater scholastic excellence among Mississippi students and recognize the teaching profession.

The STAR student is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Power of Bay St. Louis. She attended North Bay Elementary and Bay Junior High before coming to the high school.

Harder of Bay St. Louis has been teaching mathematics at the high school for 20 years. He was selected by Power as the teacher who has influenced her the most during her school years.

As a freshman, Power was a member of the National Junior Honor Society, Student Council, yearbook staff, and was selected as editor of the 'Tigers Pause '81' annual. In ninth grade, she received the Algebra I Award.

Power has been a member of the French Club and also a volunteer office aide for the past three years. During her sophomore year she placed eighth in the state on the National French Test Level I and also received the Geometry Award.

During the summer of 1982, Power was chosen to attend the Governor's School at Mississippi University for Women at Columbus.

In her junior year she was selected as a member of the National Honor Society and was elected Class Treasurer. That same year she won the Algebra II Award and placed seventh in the state on the National French Test Level II.

Power placed first in chemistry in the Junior Engineering Technological Society's 1983 TEAMS Competition. She was also chosen to attend the American Legion Auxiliary Girls State in that year.

After graduation Power plans to attend Mississippi State University and major in Chemical Engineering.

Harder received his BS in mathematics from Mississippi State University and is completing his work towards his MS at University of Southern Mississippi.

He has been chosen STAR teacher previously in both 1970 and 1980.

In 1971, Harder was honored with the dedication of the Tiger Yearbook.

In 1982 he was issued a patent on Equation Rotation—An Algebra Game, and is the author of an article published in 1983 in 'The Mathematics Teacher,' a professional journal published by the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics.

BSHS STARS—Stephanie Carol Power, a Bay Senior High School senior of Bay St. Louis, was recently selected the STAR student at the school for the present school year. She is named Kenneth Harder, a BSHS mathematics teacher, as STAR teacher this year for being her most influential instructor. The Student-Teacher Achievement Recognition Program is sponsored by the Mississippi Economic Council in Jackson to encourage greater scholastic excellence among Mississippi students and recognize the teaching profession. The HNC students ranked average in all categories, but Burton noted that this is the first competition HNC has participated in for several years.

PRC enrollment 75 students down

Pearl River College's spring enrollment total is 75 students less than the 1983 spring semester count.

According to Dr. Willis Lott, director of admissions, 1,463 students made it into class before late registration closed last week. At this time last year 1,538 students were enrolled at the Poplarville campus.

Last fall 1,686 students attended Pearl River College, however, Dr. Lott said the loss of a couple of hundred students from fall to the spring semester is a normal occurrence.

Lott said he thinks he knows the reason for the drop from the 1983 total. "We have implemented tougher standards," Dr. Lott said.

"These new academic and financial aid policies took a toll on a number of students," Lott said.

Lott said, 89 academic students, ten technical and three vocational students were suspended for one semester after fall grades were reported. Another 23 students were suspended from financial aid the second semester.

Students attending Pearl River College now must maintain a 1.5 quality point average on all hours attempted each semester for the first three semesters at Pearl River. They must also pass 75 percent of all hours attempted.

Legal Secretaries give $1,500 in scholarships to local students

Larkin Smith, Harrison County sheriff, was guest speaker for the February meeting of Harrison-Hancock Counties Legal Secretaries Association at the Western Sizzlin' Steak House, Courthouse Road, Gulfport.

Smith discussed law enforcement trends of the future and advised the group of certain changes already instituted.

Thirteen additional patrol units have been added, making a total of 30 units in the county.

Rather than having a separate process division, process is now being served by the patrol officers.

A prisoner work program will be expanded to include truck farming on 130 acres of the 600-acre county farm, beginning in the spring.

Smith said $198,000 is spent annually to feed prisoners in the Harrison County Jail, and the truck-farming operation is designed to reduce these costs as well as provide additional income for the county.

Drug investigations are top priority since 75 to 80 percent of all crime is drug related. Smith said his department will work closely with other local and federal agencies in these investigations.

Lien Hoang of Pass Christian, winner of a $1,000 scholarship; Jane Marie Ladner of Bay St. Louis, winner of a $500 scholarship, and members of their families were also guests for the meeting.

The scholarships are presented annually by Harrison-Hancock LSA to qualifying persons interested in pursuing legal secretarial careers.

Other guests present were Marie Kiser-Cahn, Roberta Shelton, Joyce Ziebold, Carolyn Varnado, Elizabeth Brewer, Jenny Underwood, Sarah Holley, Shannon Paola, Joan Jordy, Glenda Gregory, and Frances McGuire.

A legal education quiz on correct spelling and word meanings was presented by Gini Myers.

Billie Ruddick announced that "Putting on the Ritz" will be the theme for Bosses' Night, March 31.

Gulfport attorney Len Blackwell will be guest speaker for the March 8 dinner meeting, 6:30 p.m. at the Western Sizzlin' Steak House. Reservations may be made through Elizabeth Mallini, 374-8383.

Alcorn Alumni to convene annual meeting in Jackson

The Alcorn State University National Alumni Association will hold its annual mid-winter conference at the Sheraton Regency Convention Center in Jackson Friday, through Sunday.

This year's conference is being hosted by the Jackson Alcorn Alumni Club.

The theme is "Alumni Support: Bridge to Excellence." Registration and a tour of Jackson will begin at 1 p.m. on Friday.

Committee meetings will begin at 2 p.m. and a disco dance/hospitality hour will be held at 9:30 p.m.

Also on Friday, Oliver G. Taylor, director of the Office of Personnel at ASU, and Franklin D. Jackson, director of Institutional Advancement and Planning at ASU, will conduct workshops on alumni giving and fund raising at 3:30 p.m.

On Saturday business sessions as slated, and Dr. Walter

Washington, president of the University, along with other key administrators will present reports on the status of the University.

Saturday's activities will conclude with a banquet followed by a dance.

State Representative Charles B. Sheppard will be the guest speaker for the alumni banquet at 7 p.m. Sheppard, assistant professor of social science at ASU, was recently re-elected to the Mississippi House of Representatives District 85.

The conference will conclude on Sunday with an executive committee meeting at 8 a.m.

Highlighting the conference will be the selection of the 1984 Alcornite-of-the-Year.

Candidates for Alcornite-of-the-Year are: Florence Archie, retired Farmers Home Administration supervisor who now resides in Memphis, Tenn.;

Thelma Bailey Carson, retired home demonstration agent, Winona; James S. Ford, businessman and retired chief of police of the City Housing Authority Police Department, Culver City, Calif.; Isaac L. Thomas, registered pharmacist, Laurel; Emmett James Stringer, retired horticulture teacher, Cleveland, Ohio.

Last year's Alcornite-of-the-Year was Vera Hendricks Bryant, reading supervisor of South-Fike County Schools, Magnolia.

The Alcorn National Alumni Association has approximately 55 chapters throughout the country and more than 20,000 graduates throughout the nation and the world.

All ASU alumni are encouraged to participate.

Girl Scouts delivering cookies

Girl Scout cookies have arrived. Deliveries will be made to neighborhoods through March 3.

Additional orders may be placed by contacting any Girl Scout or calling 467-3999.

The annual cookie sale was launched over 20 years ago by the Gulf Pines Girl Scout Council when funds were needed to build Camp Titi Kana.

Today profits from cookie sales are still used to develop and maintain the 339-Acre Girl Scout camp.

GIRL SCOUTS®

Council profits are also used to give direct service to more than 9,000 girls in south Mississippi, to train and service over 1,700 adult volunteers, to purchase equipment, and to provide assistance to local Girl Scouts participating in educational opportunities offered by Girl Scout councils across the country.

Individual troops also earn profits through the cookie sale.

USM book festival speakers reported

Musings

It would seem strange to enter or pass by a building being constructed and not hear the sound of any tool, but that was true when Solomon's temple was being built. The stones were already made before they were brought there.
